THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago, Wednesday, the 23d of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.

Republicans, and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominee of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the Convention.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

ROOMS OF THE REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
MILWAUKEE, FEBRUARY 12, 1880.

A State Convention of delegates representing the Republican party of Wisconsin, and of all who will co-operate with them in supporting the Nominee of the party, is hereby called to meet at the Capitol in Madison, at twelve o'clock M., on Wednesday, May 27th, 1880, for the purpose of placing in nomination an electoral ticket of ten electors to be supported by the party at the next Presidential election, and also to select twenty delegates, (two from each Congressional District and four from the State at large) to represent the Republican party of Wisconsin in the National Republican Convention, which is called to meet at Chicago on the 23d of June, A. D. 1880, and to transact such other business as may be deemed necessary.

Each Senate and Assembly District is entitled to two delegates in the Convention.

The Democratic party is a "foot-ball" of circumstances. It is getting pretty badly used, too.

Tilden will quietly get away with the Cincinnati Convention. There is a silent force in his barrel.

The prospects that there will be a third-term candidate doesn't appear to revive the drooping spirit of the Democracy.

The South is rightly "fornist" the hero of No. 15, Gramercy Park. It refuses to be one of the mourners at his funeral next November.

The Democrats in Congress have again shown the country how easily they can back down. They are used to the business, and do it well.

Whoever is put up by the Democrats, there will not be enough left of him after he runs through the campaign to make a subject for cremation.

When the Democratic papers say anything about the election of their Presidential candidate next fall, they do not forget to qualify their statements by a free use of the word "if."

Very recently a prominent Mississippi Democrat took an extensive trip through that State, and when he returned he publicly made the statement that Blaine or Grant, would certainly carry the State against Tilden.

When the Cincinnati Convention meets and Tilden nominates himself on the first ballot, the Democratic papers will have occasion to feel humiliated because they were afraid to say one good word for the Sage of Gramercy Park.

The Republicans of Milwaukee are enjoying quite a boom. The prospects for a victory are flattering indeed, and unless over-confidence should reduce the Republicans into too much lull, they will carry the city. The Democrats in Milwaukee committed political suicide some time ago.

The State Journal mentions the fact that on Friday night last, a special train of thirty-five cars, seventeen of which were passenger coaches, containing nearly one thousand persons, passed through that city on the Chicago and Northwestern railway, bound for Manitoba. The freight cars were loaded with horses, cattle, and farming implements. The emigrants were from Lower Canada. It is said that a large emigration will take place this summer from Canada to Manitoba.

There is a probability that certain lands along the Wisconsin Central railway in the northern part of the State will prove very valuable on account of the minerals they contain. One of the members of the Assembly, who owns several hundred acres of land in that section, has found mineral in considerable quantities on the land, and some of the ore assayed sixty-eight dollars in gold per ton, besides a handsome yield of silver and lead. He has a number of men at work who are making important discoveries, and he has every assurance that minerals in large quantities can be found in the northern part of Wisconsin.

The Iowa Legislature has adopted a resolution proposing an amendment to the State constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and this leads the Chicago Journal to say that Iowa has a very round-about process of amending the Constitution, inasmuch as the question must be again acted upon by the next Legislature. Wisconsin has a similar method of adopting amendments to the Constitution, and however awkward and round-about it may seem to the Journal, it is nevertheless a very safe and reasonable method. It prevents an amendment from being adopted without first being pretty thoroughly discussed both by the newspapers and the Legislature. Public sentiment changes, and amendments to the constitution should not be made in haste. The present plan in Iowa and Wisconsin gives ample time to discuss a proposed amendment before it is submitted, and therefore when a question of this kind is submitted to the people it is done after a thorough discussion of the subject, and the people are prepared to vote upon it intelligently.

There were some statements made at a meeting at the Ex-Convicts' Home in Indianapolis, the other day, which will probably surprise a good many readers. One of the speakers at the meeting was ex-Governor Hendricks, and he took the opportunity of saying that it was not true, that the majority of convicts go to prison as drunks. It was supposed, generally speaking, that class furnished a large majority of all the convicts, but has been found to be untrue. He also said that it was erroneous to believe that the convicts came chiefly from the uneducated classes, for statistics prove that very many of the convicts are men of good education in fact above the average. Ex-Governor Baker, who took a conspicuous part in the meeting, spoke in pretty severe terms against the prevailing custom of denouncing the exercise of the pardoning power of Governors. He said he may have made mistakes in that direction as other Governors had, but his deepest regret was that he did not pardon more than he did. He held that statistics show that of those who give themselves over to society often having been punished for crime, only about six per cent relapse into their former criminal condition. These are statements which deserve thoughtful consideration.

A Washington correspondent says that Senator Blaine is managing his own campaign. This is true, and his matchless energy, his strong will power, and his tremendous force of magnetism, make him one of the best campaigners in the United States. He also appears to have boundless hope as well as marvelous courage. The correspondent says that two weeks ago he gave a grand reception to the Republican Congressmen and correspondents, and during the latter part of last week he went over to the other side and gave a reception and a free lunch to the Democratic Congressmen and correspondents. On Saturday last he gave the Republicans another brilliant party, and next Saturday the Democrats will be invited again. This is his plan of beginning the campaign. No man knows better than Senator Blaine how to gain popularity in a certain direction. He makes his headquarters in the billiard-room in the upper story of his own house, and on the tables are piles of letters from every State and all classes of persons, assuring him of their friendship and support. He keeps four clerks engaged in opening these letters and in writing answers dictated in shorthand. It is said that if Senator Blaine is nominated, he will conduct the canvass himself, and like Douglas in 1860, will take the stump and make speeches in some of the principal cities of the Union.

The North American Review for April has for its leading article a paper entitled "McClellan's Last Service to the Republic," which covers the whole period of McClellan's military career, from the flank movement to the James to the battle of Antietam. It is intended to vindicate the General against the charge that he was over-cautious and unnecessarily slow in his movements, and contains many statements of an interesting character. Sir Francis Hincks contributes a paper on the "Relations of Canada with the United States." The author's principal object is to show that the recently enacted Canadian Tariff is not an act of retaliation against the United States for their refusal to establish reciprocal free trade between the two countries in the products natural to both. The Rev. David Swing writes about "The Failure of the Southern Pulpit." According to him the Southern Pulpit is without influence on public opinion in the South, whereas it might be, and ought to be, a great engine for moral and material regeneration of the people. The discussion of the Third Term question, begun in the February number of the Review, is continued in the present number by the Hon. George S. Boutwell, who insists that, whatever may have been the practice and the teaching of "the Father" with respect to a third term, circumstances make it in the highest degree expedient that General Grant be again elected to the presidency. Charles Stewart Parnell sets forth the reforms in the laws of land tenure which are advocated by himself and his political associates, under the heading "The Irish Land Question." A PERSECUTED PARSON.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The unknown persecutor of Dix, Trinity Church's rector, after publishing impudent warning notes in the papers yesterday, resumed his malicious attacks, sending dozens of persons to the rector's house on various forged notes. A large force of detectives is at work on the case. It is privately surmised that the person may be a prisoner of one of the Trinity chapels, whose mind has been rendered unsound by religious questions, and like a good many admirers of Dix in former times, was alienated and embittered against him by the latter's marriage a few years ago.

AN ASTONISHER.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Grant managers here are greatly astonished that Blaine should have secured the Rhode Island delegation to Chicago. The Grant men have loudly been claiming delegations from nearly every State that has not yet held a Convention, and one of them in the Senate recently said that Blaine was not aware of the delegation from any single State even in New England except Maine. The result in Rhode Island, therefore, staggers them.

GRANT AND THE STORM.

Special to the Gazette.
CHICAGO, March 22.—General Sheridan's officers are not alarmed by the Times' Galveston's special, giving the account of the loss of the ship Reform, and expressing fears regarding the safety of the City of Mexico with General Grant and party on board. Sheridan telegraphed on the 18th from the City of Mexico, that he sailed that day and would be home on the 24th. The City of Mexico is not due at Galveston till to-day.

NEW ORLEANS, March 22.—Some excitement prevailed here over the rumor of the loss of Grant's steamer City of Mexico. The report is now discredited.

JEFF. DAVIS.

Special to the Gazette.
INDIANAPOLIS, March 22.—The brother of Mrs. Dorsey proposes to contest the will which gave Jeff. Davis most of her property; that undue influence was used in getting his sister to make such a disposition of her property; that he has no rights in the United States Courts. The property is very valuable, and among it are many elegant family heir-looms.

OXFORD WINS.

Special to the Gazette.
LONDON, March 22.—The university race was won by the Oxford, by three lengths. The contest was a spirited one. Oxford was the favorite in the pools, and was the evident winner from the start. The crews died together to-night.

ON THE GULF.

A Strong Gale, with Rain and a Heavy Sea—General Grant—Shipwreck.

GALVESTON, TEXAS, March 21.—A strong gale accompanied by rain has prevailed on the coast here for the past eighteen hours. Shipping in the outer roads of the harbor, has, in some instances, met serious disaster.

The Norwegian ship reform, loaded with 3,000 bales of cotton for Havre, parted her cable and went to pieces. The crew, together with fifteen stevedores and two pilots, were lost. The United States revenue cutter McLean went to the rescue, but was compelled to return. A yawl boat from the ship came ashore on the gulf side of the city to-night, but no tidings of the missing men have been received. The cargo was valued at $175,000. The night is dark, the wind high, and the sea rough, with no probability of abatement of the storm at present. Fears are entertained for the safety of the City of Mexico, with General Grant and party on board. She was due this afternoon, but thus far the pilots are unable to detect the steamer in sight. It is surmised that the steamer will change its course to New Orleans, as the gale is from the northwest, and it is impossible to enter this port during the present high wind. It is possible for her to leave her anchorage, the United States cutter McLean will go out on a cruise, to-morrow morning in search of the Mexico and the coast bark Reform. General Grant and staff arrived on a special train from San Antonio to-night, to meet General Grant.

AN IMPORTANT LEASE.

YANKTON, March 20.—At a meeting of the directors of the Sioux City & Dakota Railroad company in Yankton to-day, a lease of the entire property was made to the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company. The possession of the property was surrendered to S. S. Merrill, general manager of the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul company, who has appointed George E. Merchant Superintendent. The leased property embraces the recently consolidated Dakota Southern and Sioux City and Pemoins railways, and will be operated as the Sioux City & Dakota division of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. By this lease the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul company is enabled to run its own trains from Chicago and Milwaukee to Sioux City, Yankton, and Sioux Falls.

GARFIELD.

The Criticism of his Action on the Deficiency Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Both political parties are endeavoring to get all possible glory out of the passage of the deficiency bill, which contains a political rider providing that deputy marshals at elections shall be appointed by judges of district courts instead of by United States marshals, as is the case at present, and shall be divided between the two political parties. The Democrats are boasting that they have gained all that they fought for in the extra session, and have now a decided victory. The Republicans reply that the amendment amounts to nothing, and that the Democrats would never have obtained its passage had it not been for the excessive non-partisanship and surrender of Garfield, whose amendment was adopted by the Democrats. The fact is that many Republicans are very much disgusted with Garfield's action, and while they claim that his zeal to assist his political opponents out of a bad scrape did not weaken the law, it certainly cannot be commended by some of his party friends, who will no longer regard him as a safe leader. The Democrats are praising Garfield's "statesmanship" in extravagant terms, and express their joy at finding one man who can "rise above the party." Garfield did not vote for the bill, however, on its final passage.

PARNELL.

His Arrival and Reception at Queenstown.

LONDON, March 21.—The correspondent of the Herald at Queenstown sends the following:

Mr. Parnell has arrived here in the Baltic, and was met by three political deputations and a disorderly mob. A few speeches were made. Mr. Parnell said that his American tour was a great triumph, despite reports to the contrary. At a banquet held in the evening, in acknowledging the toast of his own health, he denounced in general all those who had maligned his character during his absence, but said little that could be of interest in America. His most specially idiotic statement was that while in the United States he had been informed, on the highest ecclesiastical authority, that the English Government had attempted to influence the Pope, and the American bishops through the Pope against his mission. His speech was most disappointing from a political point of view, for it did not in any way foreshadow the programme of the speaker or his party. When he left for Dublin he was followed to the station by a small crowd.

ANTI-TILDEN FACTION.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The anti-Tilden or Tammany Democrats propose holding their State Convention on the same day and in the same place with the Tilden wing. The division of the party in this State is not less clearly defined than it was last fall. To disprove the oft-made assertion of the Tildenes that Tammany has no following outside of New York, the anti Tilden faction is being reorganized throughout the State. Among this faction Hancock seems the favorite candidate. Anybody but Tilden will, however, be accepted. Tilden will never be. John Kelly says so, unquestionably means it, and his party, as is admitted on all sides to defeat Tilden in this State in case of his nomination. Kelly says, also, that Tammany strongly wants harmony without Tilden, that delegates will be sent to Chicago by Tammany unless the other portion pledges its delegates to somebody besides Tilden, and that an unpurged delegation would not be satisfactory. Tammany must be on hand at the National Convention to see that no foul play is successfully attempted.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

EPHRAH, Pa., March 21.—During the progress of an entertainment given by the public school in the public hall at Lincoln, last night, at which about five hundred persons were present, part of the floor gave way, precipitating between one hundred and one hundred and fifty persons to the floor below. Many escaped by jumping out of the windows, which are about twelve feet from the ground. About thirty persons were injured, some severely. Among the latter are Mrs. Jacob Koentmacher, Misses Alice Bowman, Ada Springer, Ada Miller, Laura Erb and Christie Binghamman. During the confusion the scholars rushed on the stage, overturning two coal oil lamps, one of which exploded, setting fire to the carpet, but the fire was extinguished before any serious damage was done. Intense excitement prevailed throughout the neighborhood. It is not yet certain that all the injured will recover.

INGERSOLL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21.—Colonel Bob Ingersoll, referring to an interview with him, published in the West which he is reported to have said he no favors Grant, says: "The article is not entirely correct. I was asked how I thought Illinois would go, and I replied that I thought for Grant; I did not say that I would be 'for Blaine if it would do any good.' I did not say this was going to be 'a soldier year,' and that 'Grant filled the popular eye in that character.' Illinois is Grant's home, and I have taken it for granted that he would carry that State. He may carry Illinois without being nominated, but certainly he will not be nominated without Illinois."

the party at Chicago. With me there are much graver questions than the name of the candidate. I am waiting to see what position the party takes. As between Grant and Blaine, my personal preference has always been for Blaine."

TELEPHONIC RELIGION.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 21.—A novel telephonic experiment has been made here to-day. A microphone was placed on the pulpit of Rev. N. J. Derby, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and connected through a telephone in the pastor's study with telephones in the houses of a number of infirm and aged members who are unable to attend church services. By this means they are enabled to hear the entire service, organ, choir, and preacher quite distinctly. The arrangement is intended to be permanent for the benefit of those who are unable to leave their homes.

SUDDEN DEATH.

MADISON, March 21.—Mrs. Hobbins, the wife of Dr. William Hobbins, of this city, a lady 65 years of age, fell dead in the Episcopal church during service this afternoon. Mrs. Hobbins felt chilly in her pew and told her daughter she would go to the register, in the rear of the church, and get warm, but before reaching the register, immediately expired. Heart disease was probably the cause. Mrs. Hobbins was greatly beloved by all our people, and her sudden taking off has caused a deep gloom throughout the city.

OBITUARY.

MILWAUKEE, March 21.—Dr. Francis Huebschmann, the first German physician of this city, died to-day, aged 63 years. He has been prominently connected with local affairs since 1842. He was Presidential Elector from Wisconsin in 1848, and was appointed by President Pierce Superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Northern District in 1853.

MADISON, March 21.—James M. Dixon, a wealthy farmer, living near the city, died last evening, after a lingering illness.

A STOLEN HUSBAND.

CINCINNATI, March 21.—The Gazette's New Albany, Ind., special says: "Mrs. Belle Sage has brought suit against Albert Sage, her brother-in-law, for stealing and carrying away her husband. He is ill with consumption, and, having $2,000 insurance on his life, there is a quarrel between the wife and his family over its possession."

ROBBED.

BOSTON, Mass., March 21.—While a servant of J. H. Laverly was checking the manager's valise at the railroad depot, Saturday night, a thief snatched it and fled. The contents are valued at $5,000.

The Demoralization of the Gem Puzzle.

How it Effects the Mind and Business—Some Sad Results—The 34 Solution.

CHICAGO, March 17.—The 15, 14 block

puzzle is absorbing the attention of all classes, sects, and religious. Business men, who heretofore were pleasant, kind, affable

and gentlemanly, are now cross, unreasonable, provoking and altogether out of sorts. I went into a store the other day to purchase a pound of tea, I enquired the price of their best Oolong, "13, 15, 14" was the answer. I will take a pound of the 15 cent, if you please. "O, hang it, I meant the 14—puzzle." "What did you want?"

"Tea, one pound of your best tea."

"John, see here, that 12 must be got in its place, and the 11 15 kept as it is."

I left, despairing of ever getting waited on. It is so all over, even Potter, Palmer and a distinguished guest's "Go to the 15,

14 as 13 was all right, and if the 14 could be got in its place, No. 9 or 13 was out, but be sure and move 12 carefully so as to get No. 15 after the 14, or else No. 9 would certainly go into seven's place." Some business men address their letters to 15, 14,

13, or 13, 15, 14, or 14, 15, 13.

No reliance can be placed on any one,

what they say, Chicago is in a state of mental depravity, all owing to this craze over the blocks. Drug stores have been almost depleted by wives and daughters, in order to find, if possible,

some remedy for this lamentable disease,

but without avail. Physicians and surgeons, druggists and doctors, are entirely helpless when attacked, and consequently cannot do anything in a professional way, for the public at large.

One remedy, and only one, which has had any effect to mitigate this disease of late, is the bigamous Davis, and the session attending this "man of many wives."

A new wife turns up in this city almost every day now—claiming Clarence as her husband. It is thought best to label him

"Claimed where ever found, as a husband" and let him go.

In order to help cure

the 15-14 disease for mankind, Operators on the Board of Trade are all mixed up in figures. Wheat fell in one day from $1.20 to 13-15-14, and all other grains and produce to the same figures; perfect quiet reigned—13-15-14 it was. Stocks rose to the same; cattle and hogs the same, and a universal rate was established for everything, from a cigar to a diamond, a glass of beer to a car of wheat. Home and happiness, money and bank accounts, were of no account; the fever had taken hold, and everyone stricken as with a plague. The deaths from this cause have not as yet been recorded, and probably never will be,

but it is fearful to contemplate the delation of mind it is working in our midst.

Sales have fallen off. Profits are a thing of the past. Pale looking men are wandering up and down our streets, half crazed, uttering "13-14-15, I will get it before morning." I firmly believe that the following solution of the 16-block puzzle, which I gave to a friend, has helped somewhat to prolong his life, and otherwise

ward off serious disease of body and mind.

As it might be of lasting benefit to many of your readers, and help restore them to health, I give it most willingly, knowing that my reward is sure, and that my name will go down to future generations as manifest of the greatest benefactor. The true solution of the 15-14 puzzle, I will give in future, as I am studying earnestly to save this nation from ruin, and its people from affords occasion for scientists to shift their position, and look at the question from a new standpoint. The mother is a specimen of the Asiatic elephant, being twenty three years old and very large. The sire is "Mandric," an elephant of about the same size as the mother, and two years older. The baby is thirty-five inches high, and weighs 214 pounds. The period of gestation is put by scientific authorities at twenty months and a half. There will probably be a scientific investigation of the case by Prof. Leidy and others.

A Scene at the Southern Railroad Banquet in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Commercial, March 19.

There occurred a grand and thrilling episode. The great orchestra, under the puissant baton of Michael Brand, struck up the stirring old air of "Dixie," with its soul-thrilling associations and memories.

For a moment there was a hush. The old soldiers of the North and the old soldiers of the South looked at each other, and the past throng was still. But before the second bar was struck the emotions of the gallant

Southern battle-city made the lofty arches ring again. Side by side with them stood the Northern hosts and cheered with them. Again and again the men of the South broke forth as the gay measures woke their enthusiasm, and the strains of the orchestra were fairly drowned by their united voices.

A prominent gentleman of Cincinnati,

and a famous soldier, turned to Gov. Marks of Tennessee, and said: "That is the old

Rebel yell."

"Yes," was the reply, "and now hear it raised for the Stars and Stripes," for just then the orchestra struck up the grand old patriotic air. The scene that followed is undecipherable. Such as one has never witnessed before. As the full orchestra poured forth the grand old strain of

"The Star-Spangled Banner,"

"O long may it wave

Over the land of the free

And the home of the brave"—

the great organ burst forth in glorious unison with all its magnificent power, and the vast audience arose as one man, and the old Union cheer blended with the old

Rebel yell to the notes of the National air for the first time since the dark and bloody years of the great Civil War. Men who had faced each other on many a crimson battlefield—under the Stars and Stripes

and under the Stars and Bars—clasped hands and waved handkerchiefs until the great level of the hall was like a white sea. All the sound of the orchestra and organ was lost in the exultant shouts of reconciliation and common patriotism, and the great wave of enthu-

iasm swept over the vast, glowing concourse, and carried everything before it. It was a scene never to be forgotten by those who participated—a moment that was cardinal in the history of the great Republic.

Surely the honored projects of the great enterprise, the successful completion of which was celebrated yesterday, and the out-ent, faithful workers upon the grand design, builded more wisely than they knew, and helped to accomplish ends far beyond and deeper than they dreamt of.

MISS MIDDY MORGAN.

Interesting Sketch of the Lady Who Reports the Cattle Market for the New York Times.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.

A woman can do things that one would least expect a woman to accomplish, if she sets her head to it. It was my happiness last summer to see a lady in New York city who has succeeded nobly in a career few women would adopt from choice.

Her story reads like a romance. One day, near twenty years ago it must have been, a lady landed from a ship in New York harbor. She had come from over the sea to make her fortune in the United States. When she left the ship she had six pence and no more in her pocket. She dropped it into the seaman's charity fund. The lady had letters to influential friends in New York, and recommendations of the highest order from his Majesty Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy.

One of the gentlemen to whom she had a letter was Horace Greeley. She was admitted to his private office and presented her note, likewise a modest request. It was that the founder of the Tribune should give her employment on his paper.

"What can you do?" said he.

She answered in a very lady-like and earnest way that she could report horse races and agricultural matters. Horace Greeley could never understand a joke or he could have seen one here. Also he had a sort of general contempt for the female intellect, and he probably saw in the young lady before him a mild sort of lunatic. He merely glared at her over his spectacles.

From that day to this Miss Morgan has steadily declared that there is only one man in America she thoroughly detested, and that was Horace Greeley.

"He is the meanest person I ever saw," said she. "He never even asked me to take a seat."

The great editor dismissed the aspiring young woman in short order. But some body about the office, whose name is now lost to tradition, heard the story and thought it would be a good joke to send the young lady who wanted to write about horses to the Saratoga races, then about to come off. In the way of a jest, this was actually done. It would be such fun, certain jolly under editors of the Tribune thought. But to keep matters all straight and get a proper account of the races, the young man who regularly reported such matters also sent a usual, ignorant of this, the intrepid Middy Morgan wrote out her story of the famous races and sent it to the paper. Miss Morgan's account was used instead of the regular reporter's. It was in the nature of a stunning surprise to the Tribune authorities. It was so well, so full of spirited life, and showed such entire acquaintance with the subject that for many days on this brave girl found no trouble in getting on.

She was sent everywhere to report horse races and races. That was her regular work for some years, when she exchanged it for live stock reporting. She now only reports the cattle market. New York drovers call her the best judge of horned cattle in this country. She can tell the weight of a bull on the foot in the twinkling of an eye. There is only one peculiarity about her, that whatever she touches she does it better than anybody else. That is why she succeeds so well. She now reports the cattle markets for four New York papers, among them the Times and Tribune. She has saved her earnings, and is quite well to do.

"I think," she ought to be," said an important young lady with pink cheeks and banged hair; "she ought to be rich. Two thousand dollars a year and no clothes!"

The young lady did not mean it literally. She only meant to allude to Miss Morgan's severe simplicity in dress.

It was not without good reason that she mostly remarked to Horace Greeley that she new something about horses. A way back in her merry girlhood she was the best horseback rider in all Ireland. She used to ride horseback, standing up and all sorts of ways, only for the fun of it. She belonged to an old family of the Irish gentry—soldiers and horsemen they were. She had a brother in the charge at Balaclava, in the Crimean war. Her youth was a very gay one, spent in the best society in the old country. Sometimes, in confidential moments, she shows to young friends the pink satin dresses she wore to court balls and parties in the days when she mingled in high life. A brilliant life it must have been, too. Miss Morgan seldom talks about it, seldom alludes to herself in any way. She is reticent and reserved to all but a few loved friends. She took to horses as soon as she was old enough to ride.

"There wasn't a horse in Ireland that I couldn't break and ride," said she.

She was in Italy a number of years. She was acquainted with the Italian court people, but it must be confessed that her heart, if she had any, was in King Victor Emmanuel's stables. The soldier King liked a good steed as well as Miss Morgan herself did. He found out her passion for the equine race, and, strange as it may sound, our wild Irish girl became a buyer of horses to the stable of the King of Italy. I told you her story was like a romance.

When she at length left Italy the soldier King put into her hand his own watch, that he used himself, as a token of his high regard for her. Miss Morgan carries his Majesty's watch to this day. On the outside of it is the King's monogram, "V. E.," set in diamonds. A belt and chain of gold and diamonds to match the watch go with it. None but Miss Morgan's intimate friends often see these treasures.

What made this lady, refined, gifted, brilliant, a favorite in the highest circles of society in Europe, suddenly turn her back on it all to cross the sea and become a market reporter among the cattle pens of the New World? Nobody knows. Nobody would exactly like to ask her, either. She is not that sort of a person. Many thoughts suggest themselves to one in pondering on this strange career. Long writing for newspapers gives a person the impertinence of the civil one when it comes to trying to get news, and one day I asked a friend of the lady's this question:

"Was she ever in love?"

"I don't know," he answered. "Some day out at the abattoir, if I can get a gate well locked between her and me, in one of the pens, maybe I'll ask her. Otherwise I wouldn't like to do it."

She was always very independent. Her parents died, and under the laws of primogeniture all the family property passed into her brother's hands. There was nothing for Middy to look to for support except the generosity of relatives.

"I would not live on the crumbs that fell from a brother's table," said she.

So she came to America to earn her own living. She is charmed with our country, and owns it honestly. She says that it is the best country in the world, and that American ladies don't know what privileges they enjoy. They certainly have some privileges that they don't make the best use of.

Miss Morgan is not half appreciated, I am bound to say. She is so busy, so reserved, and takes so little pains to make friends. We went to see her at New York Times office. Twice we climbed the stairs to find her out. The third time, after waiting an hour, we saw a young man take off his hat, bow low to somebody just entering the door, and say "good morning, Miss Morgan." One or two other good looking young men did the same thing, then a grey-bearded, middle-aged man, and by that time the Times cattle reporter had reached her desk. She is an immensely tall woman, six feet and two inches in height. "A man wouldn't like to marry her," would probably be the first thing the average masculine person would say. Which remark is to be considered not only uncalled for, but impertinent, since she does not want any man to marry her. Miss Morgan wore a lady waterproof dress reaching to her ankles. She wore a cheap black straw hat, "pitched onto" the back of her head. It suited her, and it was nobody else's business. Her shoulders are broad and square, and she does not mince matters when she walks. She jumps off and on a car in full motion when she feels like it. Those accustomed to the ordinary helplessness of the female sex in the matters of locomotion are somewhat startled by her methods. They say she looks like a man dressed in woman's clothes.

Her unusual height and appearance led to some funny mistakes before she became known on the New York streets. One anecdote she herself tells with considerable zest is this: She boarded a street car one rainy night in great haste, as usual, and went down town. She wore a large military cloak, which she threw over her shoulder in sweeping style, and sat absorbed in thoughts of her work, unconscious that the eyes of a guardian of the peace and morals of Manhattan Island were fixed sharply upon her. Still she sat, and still the policeman watched her. After a while he made up his mind. Coming over to her, he clasped her upon the shoulder, and exclaimed triumphantly:

"Here, you're my man!"

He thought she was a well-known male criminal who was running away from justice, disguised in woman's clothes. Here was a case. Several persons in the car knew Middy. They shouted "fun, as may be imagined. They were not disappointed. The lady sprang to her feet like a flash, threw off her cloak and made a speech to the crowd. Well she might. She unrolled herself to her full height of six feet two, and majestically declared herself a citizen of New York, under the protection of the American flag, and an employe of the New York Tribune, and a lady besides, who was not to be insulted with impunity while pursuing her legitimate occupation.

The policeman was as unhappy a man as could have been found in the known world at that moment. He looked around for a knot hole to creep out of, but didn't find any. Amid shouts of laughter from the passengers in the car, he fled softly out, and never was heard of more.

Next morning the undaunted Miss Morgan presented herself at the police headquarters. She stood up tall and turned herself around and around before the astonished official gaze.

"Now," she says, "look at me. Take a good look at me, so that I may be saved further annoyance."

She never was troubled again.

If, for the space of half a breath, we were a little surprised when we first saw this gifted woman, it all disappeared the moment she spoke. Her voice is like music, that, rarely, rarely, rarely, we hear in the highly cultivated English ladies, too rarely, alas, in American women. She took off a heavy leather glove, and then one observed that the dismal waterproof sleeve was finished off by a most beautiful white hand. Her complexion is very fair and delicate, in spite of constant exposure to sun and air. She has large light blue eyes, full of spirit and truthfulness.

She has no relative in this country, but has made some warm friends. All the cattle market people know her and esteem her, as she goes here and there, from one yard to another. Universal respect and deference are shown her. There is something very impressive and strange in the way she moved about among wild Texas cattle and scarcely less wild cattle drovers, and commands as much respect as any lady in her drawing room. They say no matter how crazy drunk any one of these drovers may be, he never fails to recognize Middy Morgan, and treat her like a lady. I don't think such a thing could possibly be in any country but ours. For one thing she is a very brave woman, absolutely fearless of the terrors that scare most women and some men. It is said the only living creature that can make her back down and take to the fence is a Texas steer on the rampage.

Her first love for horses still clings to her. She is the owner of a pet pony, half sister of Lord's parrot, which she values at $1,000. In former days, of pleasant afternoons she used to ride on horseback in Central Park, the observed of all observers, on account of her noble equestrianism. It was a magnificent sight, they say, to see her as she rode, mounted upon a great big horse. She never rides now, though more's the pity, in these degenerate days, when girls don't know a horse from a mule.

Her duties require nearly all her time and strength, for she is one of the hardest working people in New York city. Her success has been richly earned.

MONDAY, MARCH 22, 1880.
CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—Holy week.
—Milliamen's meetings to-night.
—The sale of the Bennett buildings is postponed until next Monday.
—Donavin's Tennesseans at the First Methodist church this evening.
—The "Big Four" minstrels have concluded not to come to Janesville.
—Hon. Burr Sprague, of Brodhead, was among the arrivals in the city to-day.
—The Tennesseans scattered around among the churches yesterday, and did some free singing.
—Judge Conger goes to Monroe, to open up the Green county court, to-morrow, and will take up the criminal calendar.
—District Attorney Sale was able to drop into his office for a few minutes this afternoon, it being the first time since his illness.

—The First Methodist church was packed full last night, there being a special attraction in the singing line by the colored warblers.
—The case of Kinney vs. Allen, a Beloit case, was argued before Judge Conger, in chambers, the last day of last week. The Judge has taken the matter under advisement.

—During the past week there were issued at the postoffice here 138 money orders, amounting to $1,078.63, and 79 orders paid, amounting to $1,181.03, making a total of $2,259.66.

—H. H. Guernsey has returned from Dakota where he has been building a house upon his big farm. He says the weather there has been cold—about four feet below zero at times.

—The Nellie Harris troupe came Saturday, and proposed to show up at the Opera house in the evening. About $16 was taken in, but the money was returned to the ticket buyers, and no show given. It is just as well.

—That $20 gold piece, over which Lantry and Concanon have had such a long litigation, comes up before Justice Brooks to-morrow morning in a garnishee suit. Over $100 has already been expended in trying to settle who shall have that $20, and still the end is not.

—As will be seen by our telegraphic reports the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road have made another important accession to the line, it being the Sioux City and Dakota railroad, so that they can now run their own trains from Milwaukee and Chicago to Yankton, Sioux City and Sioux Falls. Another reason why Janesville should get that new line built to Beloit.

—Mrs. Mack feels rather blue. She had hope when she was granted a new trial, that the bail would be cut down, and she would be able to furnish it, but it now looks as though she would have to stay locked up, there being no reduction of the amount of bail required, and no bondsmen. Saturday the 20th was a sort of anniversary with her, she having been in jail just twenty months.

—Henry A. Tice arrived to-day from Appleton, where he has been in charge of the telegraph office. He starts away again this evening to join a surveying party on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, and will spend the summer with them, hoping thereby to strengthen himself and better his health, his long confinement to office work, and his studies, having whittled him down. His brother, Elmer Tice, has taken a good position in the railroad office at Depere, finding it more advantageous to do so than to take the Appleton office, as he expected when he left the city.

—The subscription papers for the two new railroads are meeting with many signers. There are few who object to putting their names down to the petition for the Beloit road, and the subscribers to the Atchison enterprise are generous, and there seems to be a good prospect for securing both lines. Of course there are some who refuse, but they are very few, and they will not object to taking their share of the benefits which may arise from the increase in railroad facilities, the increase of business, rise of property, or any other advantage.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EYERSON, DRUGGISTS.
The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 50 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 31 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 30 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 51 degrees above. Clear.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, warmer, clear or partly cloudy weather, northwest winds, backing to southerly, and stationary or falling barometer.

AROUND THE ROUND TABLE.

Saturday evening was devoted to a discussion of "Oration." Rev. D. B. Jackson led, and opened the subject by a paper in which he treated of the special occasions and great periods of eloquence. Prof. J. P. Haire gave a study on the nature of eloquence. B. F. Dunwiddie read an essay on the characteristics of Webster's style. Rev. A. L. Royce treated of the eloquence of the pulpit, and Rev. T. P. Sawin closed the study with a talk concerning forensic eloquence.

SERVICE OF SONG.

Cannon's hall was crowded yesterday afternoon at the song service given by the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. N. Dearborn conducted the service. Rev. H. Sewell read the parable of the prodigal son, which was the theme of the meeting. Several present, including Mr. Wheelock, Deacon Wright, and others, made brief remarks on the subject. The song part of the service was particularly interesting. Mr. J. E. Sargent presided at the organ, and Mr. Kent assisted with his cornet. A choir consisting of the Misses Willey, Mr. David Wood, Charles Wingate and Homer Rice sang, Father Cheney and wife sang, "Come Home, My Boy." The Tennesseans were present, and sang some gospel hymns. The Association has never held a more interesting song service than that of yesterday. The music was excellent, the remarks to the point, and the exercises moved off without any drag or tediousness.

A FRENZIED FATHER.

He Still Keeps Hunting for Some Trace of His Long Missing Child. He Thinks the Gypsies Stole the Girl.

Saturday afternoon J. F. Spencer, of Albion, Minn., reached this city in search of a lost child. His case has already excited much comment, for he has been on the hunt after the little one since she disappeared last fall, having travelled all over the State. It appears that the child, a little three year old girl, was out with him in the field near his home, one day last September, and wandering away from his side, disappeared strangely, and has not been seen since. The father is confident that the child was stolen by gypsies and cannot entertain any other theory. He says that two gypsies, who were arrested, admitted that some of the band had taken the child off, but beyond this he has struck no trail. He has accordingly hunted up every gypsy camp he could hear of, but thus far without avail. He tracked certain gypsies to near Waupun, and has been gathering what facts he could there the past week, and then came down to Janesville. He could gain no further tidings here, and so pushed on to Monroe, where he spent Sunday. He there learned that some gypsies had been near that place, but had gone on toward Elgin, and he pushed on after them this morning.

He has kept up this kind of an exciting hunt ever since last fall. Some think that the child was drowned, or disappeared in some such way, but the father cannot rob himself of the idea that the child was stolen. He says there was never any family trouble, and that there could be no object for anybody to take the child, unless it was for reward, but even this would be a small one, as he is not in condition to pay out much money. By selling his team and some other property, he has been enabled to keep up the search, but his means are so limited that there seems no object in trying to squeeze any money out of him.

He says he dare not give up the search as his wife is nearly crazed with the long anxiety, and for him to stop the hunt would be to drive her into an asylum by despair. He is himself also clinging to the hope of yet finding the child, but foolishly indulges in the use of stimulants, giving as an excuse that he cannot stand the strain without "bracing up." His appearance is apt to prejudice one against his story, and some strangers whom he visits are apt to think that the story is a "put-up job," but that he really had a child, and that it is now missing, there can be little doubt, as it has been given credence by the press of his own State, and by those who ought to be conversant with the facts.

It seems probable, however, that he is spending his time and money in a useless chase, but as long as he has this hope of recovering her he can do nothing less than cherish it, even at the sacrifice of everything else, and with the probability of disappointments at last.

III. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

GENTLEMEN: I have tried your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure for "Bright's disease," with which I have been afflicted for the past two years, and it has done wonders for me. I believe it is the only cure known for that terrible disease, and it is with pleasure that I write this testimony in its favor. You are at liberty to use this in any way you see proper to benefit suffering humanity. Truly yours, JAS. S. PRESCOTT, North Union O. Shaker's Society, Cuyahoga Co. Cleveland, O.

DEATH OF CHARLES SNELL.

Last Saturday afternoon Mr. Charles Snell, who lives in the town of Turtle, about two miles from Shopiere, died very suddenly of apoplexy. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon of that day he went out into the yard to get some wood, and while thus engaged was struck with apoplexy. His wife managed to get him into the house, and all that was possible was done for him, but in about an hour he breathed his last. Mr. Snell was in his 60th year, and has lived in this county for a long time. He was a man of many good qualities, but in these latter years he has had much trouble, and many heavy burdens, arising largely from the waywardness of his boys, one of whom, Steve, is now in Waupun, and the other, James, is now in jail here awaiting trial. Sheriff Comstock yesterday kindly consented to take James down to the family home, to take a last look at his father. The scene was one which will never be forgotten by those who were present. James was completely broken down by the heavy sorrow which had thus fallen upon the family, and sobbed like a child, and tears came to the eyes of all, who thus saw this strange and sad parting of father and son. The funeral services were held to-day.

UNWELCOME VISITORS.

Saturday evening there was a private social gathered at the home of Henry Carlson, on Lincoln street, and in the midst of the joyous festivities a crowd of fellows, who had not been subpoenaed, put in an appearance. They had no invitations, but were not so mad but what they came all the same. Mr. Carlson protested against their coming, but they forced their way in, and according to his statement, acted in a rowdyish and ruffianly way, smashing hats, insulting the ladies, and going in for a general "smash." They were got rid of at last, and to-day warrants were sworn out for two of the alleged ring-leaders, charging them with riot.

THE COMING DEDICATION.

The general committee having in charge the dedication of the Odd Fellows' new hall, have decided on the following arrangements: The hall will be open for public inspection, Thursday, the 25th inst., from 1:30 to 5 p. m. The hall committee will be in attendance. At 5 o'clock the doors will be closed, and the hall put in order for the dedication. These exercises will commence at 7:30 o'clock, sharp. Owing to the large number of the fraternity, only members and invited guests will be admitted. Supper will be served in the large store of M. C. Smith, under the hall, at 9 o'clock. The dedication ball is to be in Apollo hall, dancing to commence at 8:30 o'clock. Anderson's full band assisted by Prof. Severance, of Milwaukee, will furnish the music. This is to be one of the parties of the season, and will be for Odd Fellows and those holding invitations. Supper will be served from 10 to 12 and will be furnished by Mrs. Ehringer, which is a guarantee that it will be first class.

DEATH OF MRS. CONNORS.

Mrs. Mary A. Connors, wife of Patrick Connors, died at her home in this city yesterday morning, shortly before noon. She has been ill for some time, but was supposed to be better yesterday, and most of the family attended church, leaving her in care of the others, little thinking that death was so soon to call her away, but before their return she had breathed her last. She had reached the age of forty-one years, and besides a bereaved husband, and a large family of children, there are many friends who will mourn and miss her. The funeral services are to be held to-morrow forenoon. The friends will meet at the house at 9:45 o'clock, and proceed to St. Mary's church, where the services are to be held at 10 o'clock.

Guard Against Consumption.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

No use of talking—have got to have a guardian appointed to keep us from giving away goods. Every day, rain or snow, mud or slush, they will come in and buy something, if nothing more than a box of ten cent collars. When a fellow gets up on his ear, and hitches four horses and a mule to a stone boat, to come through the mud for a new suit of clothes, it shows that he means business. We should have sold the suit to him all the same if he had taken only one horse and then walked in. Receiving goods every day for little old men, big young boys, and large sized infants. We keep good goods to sell, and sell good goods for keeps. One more lot of those twenty-five cent overalls, just received from the Hub. Fifty dozen more of those ten cent socks. Goods sent by telephone or on postal cards when desired, if cash comes with the order.

SWORN EVIDENCE.

The following Cure is probably the most remarkable ever effected by any medical preparation for the treatment of Catarrh:
Gentlemen.—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had buzzing in the head, pains across the temples, dizzy spells, weak and painful eyes, swollen and sore throat, and every indication of a severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my head and throat that I had to leave home frequently at night. I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then disrobe the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my eyes were ulcerated and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but at his request postponed it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the poisonous matter dripping down from my head had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly—a deep, hard cough. Meanwhile, my eyes began to show the effects of this disease, so that I lost flesh, grew pale, and showed every symptom of an early death by consumption. When matters had reached this stage, or about six months ago, I began the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. The first dose seemed to clear my head and I had not known it to be for years. It seemed gradually to arrest the discharges. I was enabled to sleep at night, and the constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat ceased, and the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again.
